EAST CALAIS

A feeling of sadness and sorrowful sympathy pervaded this neighborhood upon hearing of the death of Jennie, wife of A. E. Holt, Nov. 23, which occurred at George Brown's in Plainfield, where she had been staying the past few weeks. The deceased was 54 years, six months and 18 days old. The funeral service took place on the following Friday at 2 p. m. in the church at North Montpelier, Mrs. Myrtle Holt officiating. Interment was at North Montpelier cemetery. Mrs. Holt had been a great sufferer for the past eight months from cancer, having been to Mary Fletcher hospital, Burlington, last March to have them removed. But her condition was such that they could not remove them all. She bore her sufferings with remarkable patience and, we might almost say truthfully, with cheerfulness. She was a member of the Woman's Relief corps of North Calais and also a member of the Calais grange. She leaves a husband, a son, Arthur, 12 years old; a granddaughter, three years old; an aged mother, Mrs. Almira Weeks; a brother, Herbert Weeks of Calais; two sisters, Mrs. Mary Richardson of Craftsbury and Mrs. Nettie Martin of Calais, to mourn her loss. She had buried three children, Abbie, a child five years old, died 22 years ago; Mrs. Annie Hayes, three years ago, and Frank, a year ago this month.

The floral tributes were: A pillow, "Dear Jennie," Alonzo Holt; 64 carnations, Mrs. George Brown, Mrs. Jennie Warren, John Getchell, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Getchell and Mrs. Foster; roses, Miss Alma Leonard; carnations, Blanche and Hazel Weeks, Mrs. Bessie Jacobs, Order of Mechanics, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Persons, Eva Persons, Calais grange, W. R. C. of North Calais, Claude George, Mrs. Carr, Mrs. Robinson and Mrs. Reynolds.

Card of Thanks.

We wish sincerely to thank all the friends for their acts of kindness and sympathy during our recent bereavement, also the bearers and singers, who kindly assisted us, and for the beautiful flowers.

His Summer Experience.

"Do you have to have many servants at your summer home, Hawkins?" asked Wigglesworth.

"Well, last year we had eighteen," said Hawkins.

"Eighteen?" asked Wigglesworth.

"Great Scott, man! how can you manage that number on your income?"

"Oh, seventeen of 'em are cooks that stayed on an average of five days, apiece," said Hawkins. "The rest were our hired men."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Curious.

Dr. Anna Howard Shaw, discussing the divorce bill, said in Philadelphia: "Love is the best foundation for marriage, if course. But common sense keeps it cool—and cool things, of course, keep the heat. But selfishness kills all—and some married people are as selfish as the lady to whom the patient said: 'These flowers, what! tell me that you are destined to wear white's words.' 'Oh, dear me!' said the lady. 'For how long?'—Argument.

"The Beloved Physician."

He is dead. One of the bravest and kindest men who ever fought death for himself and his fellowmen has yielded at last to the great white plague from which he saved thousands. Edward Livingston Trudeau was condemned at 25 to die in six months from tuberculosis, but he fought off his doom for almost half a century. A pioneer of the open air treatment for tuberculosis, one of the first exponents in this country of the theories of Brehmer and Dettweiler, he proved his faith by his practice in the face of the established views of the time, and in 1885 built a shack in the Adirondack wilderness and there coaxed two other patients to join him as he sat all day wrapped in blankets with the thermometer standing "40 below." To keep his guinea pigs alive and continue his experiments with them, he had to put them in underground caverns warmed with kerosene lamps. How the world "trod a beaten path to his door" is well known, the story of the great health plant and the town in the Adirondacks, and the 500 sanatoria in this country and Canada. He ministered to men and animals all over the wilderness. In 1910, scarcely able to stand, he spoke in Washington upon "Optimism in Medicine," saying at the end: "So let us not quench the faith nor turn from the vision which we carry, whether we own it or not; and thus inspired many will reach the goal." No wonder the woodsman called him "The beloved physician."—Boston Herald.

HOW TO GAIN FLESH

Remarkable Statement of a Woman

Who Was Nothing but Skin and Bones

Laugh and grow fat is a homely saying, but Mrs. Elizabeth L. Morris of Hammond, La., tells of a more reliable method. She says:

"I cannot say enough in praise of Vi-nol, for it saved my life. I was weak, nervous, run down, could not sleep, was unfit for work and was nothing but skin and bones. Three doctors had all failed to help me. One day I saw Vi-nol advertised, took courage and bought a bottle, and it soon made me feel better. I continued its use, and such a change! I have regained my strength, flesh and health, am perfectly well, and the doctor was surprised to see such a change in me in such a short time."—Elizabeth Morris, Hammond, La.

The famous Vi-nol proved such a wonderful strength-giver in Mrs. Morris' case was because of the potent combination of iron, beef peptonate, and the extractives of fresh cod liver, without oil, combined in a pure, active, tonic wine, which makes Vi-nol a most wonderful tonic.

EDUCATING THE ALIENS.

American Schools Thrown Open to Candidates for Citizenship.

Throughout the country the plan of the bureau of naturalization of the U. S. department of labor to enlist the cooperation of public schools in the education and Americanization of candidates for citizenship is receiving the most gratifying support. Approximately 400 cities and towns have already joined in this nation-wide educational movement for the elimination of the hyphen and this number is increasing daily.

The magnitude of this work and its development since its inception are shown, in part, by the territory covered, the number of candidates for citizenship reached, and the night and day schools which have been established for their instruction. It is the intention of the bureau of naturalization to communicate with all applicants for citizenship in the United States, wherever they are to be found, and to secure the opening of classes for them. During the current scholastic year all superintendents of schools where classes may be formed will receive monthly from the bureau the names, addresses, age, nationality, and other necessary information concerning each alien residing within their jurisdiction who files a declaration of intention or petition for naturalization. In this manner the school authorities are enabled to get in touch with such applicants and afford them valuable assistance in preparing for citizenship. In addition to this the bureau informs each applicant for citizenship that his name has been forwarded to the educational authorities, advises him to go to school, and points out the benefits to be derived from such attendance. The bureau is also working in close cooperation with various patriotic and civic bodies of the country to secure the opening of public night schools where there are none.

The wives of all petitioners for naturalization are also advised to attend school, for the reason that they derive citizenship when their husbands obtain their first papers, and because, too, such instruction will materially aid the family to live as Americans live. It has been found that approximately two out of every three petitioners for naturalization are married, and it is toward the improvement of the home life and conditions that this phase of the movement is especially directed.

The records of the bureau of naturalization show that since the commencement of the school year on October 1, 1914, there have been sent to approximately 40,000 declarants, 20,000 petitioners, and 10,000 wives of petitioners, and each day hundreds are added to the list.

The present volume of naturalization classes that over half a million foreign-born residents annually bring themselves within the jurisdiction of the bureau of naturalization, and it is the plan of the bureau, through the cooperation of the public schools with its educational movement, to change that portion of the alien body is a condition of helpless dependence or more self-maintenance to the state of productive capacity which is the hallmark of all American citizens regardless of their origin of birth.

"Holy Egoism."

"We must these days add patriotism," says the Bulgarian press, "to the nationalism, and fill with holy spirit each man's heart to create an invincible Bulgaria." It will be news to the outside world that Bulgaria had any sentiment to discard, the propelling impulse having long been that this little country had an eye solely for the main chance. But perhaps to a Bulgarian, as to a German, softness and sentimentality are easily besetting sins which have not merely to be kept in control but stamped out with the utmost ruthlessness.

If so, Bulgaria has succeeded to admiration, but the business details as set forth by the premier, have a certain solidity. By declaring war on Serbia the country can open a market in Germany and Austria, at war prices, for from 800,000 to 900,000 tons of grain. The total comes to $72,000,000, which is about what four days of war costs Britain. To wait or to sell in another market, says the premier, would mean a loss of "millions"; so "sacred egoism" dictates war.

Yet it is not wholly a matter of cash; Bulgaria "needs a mighty protector." Russia will not do, because Russia wishes to protect Serbia also; "Nobody can protect the interests of Serbia and Bulgaria simultaneously; this is not only impossible, but not desired by Bulgaria." This is frank, and not lacking in egoism, holy or otherwise. "In 1913," with equal candor the premier admits, "Russia considered both Serbian and Bulgarian interests." The czar tried to keep the peace, that is, and to settle the Balkan quarrel fairly, giving warning that whoever began war would be punished. "Holy egoism" made Bulgaria insist upon its claims, and the disastrous results are well known. Therefore "holy egoism" compels the choice of Austria and Germany as protectors because they hate Serbia and will not protect it against Bulgaria.

This is perfectly intelligible, perfectly egoistic. It is creditable to Bulgarian common sense that the manifesto is meant for Bulgarians. In the name of egoism march forth to create a greater come richer, bigger, and more powerful at the expense of its neighbors. But the world is not invited to sympathize with these purely Bulgarian ambitions. Not a word is said of Bulgarian kultur and the sacred duty of expanding it by killing Serbs and taking their lands. No plea of "dire necessity" is made, nor is it argued that might makes right.

Either the Bulgarians are a very backward people, with a callous disregard for what the world may think, or they have a shrewd perception that the world has heard enough about "holy egoism" to last for at least a century. Let the professors put it down in their text books of psychology that the egoism of others is not "holy"; Bulgaria takes the sensible course in saving its explanations for home consumption.—Springfield Republican.
